Important PR Information for Exhibitors

Please read this information carefully.

The HR Tech Conference has a long history of being the premier destination for press, influencers and analysts covering the HR category. Over the years, top-tier business and trade media outlets have sent their key journalists to cover the event. Every important industry analyst firm sends multiple analysts. Our exhibitors and sponsors are encouraged to maximize their press and analyst participation through press releases, media advisories and pre-scheduled onsite briefings.

There is a dedicated press, analyst and blogger room. It's a large and very busy room. Seating is on a first-come basis and it is not possible to reserve a table in the room. Additionally, all badges are checked at the door – and not every badge type has access to the room - so please plan on arriving in advance of your confirmed briefing time.

Frequently asked questions about the HR Tech Conference's pre-event and onsite press operations follow here:

Where do I send Press Kits?

There are tables in the Press, Analyst & Blogger Room for the display of press kits. If you are interested in having your press kit showcased in the room, we recommend shipping 25 press kits to the show. Press kits can be included with your booth materials; however, you are responsible for hand-carrying them to the show's Press, Analyst & Blogger Room. It is not possible to ship press kits directly to the Press, Analyst & Blogger Room.

Throughout the conference, the Press, Analyst & Blogger Room is monitored by HR Tech's PR firm, The Devon Group. If you have provided ample inventory, your press kits will be replenished during press room hours. Please note that any press kits that are not picked up by the end of the conference will be discarded.

Where is the Press, Analyst & Blogger Room?

The show's Press, Analyst & Blogger Room is conveniently located on the 3rd Floor of the Venetian, one level above the Expo Hall. The room number is Murano 3205. Please note that this room is ONLY for meetings with those press, analysts and bloggers who are credentialed by the HR Tech Conference. If you have other meeting requirements, such as with prospects or partners, you must seek alternate meeting locations.
